(5) In granting an application for a forfeiture order, the court may give any directions necessary or convenient for giving effect to the order, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, directions to an officer of the court to do anything necessary and reasonable to obtain possession of any document necessary for the transfer of any property subject to registration in the Deeds Registry.

(6) In granting a forfeiture order the court may, if it is satisfied that it would be in the public interest for a person's interest in the property to be transferred to him, determine the nature, extent and value of the interest and declare that the forfeiture order may, to the extent to which it relates to the interest, be discharged in accordance with section twenty-two.

9 Effects of forfeiture order

(6) Where a person applies to a court for an order under this subsection in respect of his interest in property against which an application for a forfeiture order or a forfeiture order has been made and the court is satisfied that—

(b) if the applicant acquired his interest at the time, or after the commission, of the offence, the applicant did so—

(i) for sufficient value; and

(ii) without knowing and in circumstances such as not to arouse reasonable suspicion that the property was, at the time of the acquisition, tainted property;

the court shall make an order for the transfer of the interest by the State to the applicant or for the payment by the State to the applicant of an amount equal to the value of the interest, as the court thinks fit.

(7) Subject to subsection (8), an application under subsection (2) shall be made before the expiration of a period of six months commencing on the day on which the forfeiture order is made.

(8) Where a forfeiture order is made against property, the court that made the order may, on application being made to it, grant a person claiming an interest in the property leave to apply in terms of subsection (2), after the expiration of the period referred to in subsection (7) if it is satisfied that the person's failure to make his application within that period was not due to any neglect on his part.

(9) A person who makes an application in terms of subsection (1) or (2) shall notify the Attorney-General and the Minister of the making of the application.

(10) The Attorney-General shall be a party to proceedings upon an application in terms of subsection (1) or (2) and the Minister may intervene in any such proceedings.

(a) where the interest is vested in the State, arrange for the transfer of the interest to the person; or

(b) in any other case, pay to the person an amount equal to the value of the interest.

(4a) A person who is aggrieved by the Minister's refusal to recognize the validity of his claim to an interest in any property in terms of subsection (4) may apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for a declaration as to the validity of his claim, and the Minister shall give effect to any such declaration.

14 Special provision relating to specified offences

An application for a pecuniary penalty order against a person in respect of his conviction of a specified offence shall not be granted by a court before the expiry of a period of six months commencing on the date of the conviction upon which the application is based or after the expiry of a period of twelve months from that date.

15 Pecuniary penalty orders

(1) Where an application is made to a court for a pecuniary penalty order in respect of benefits derived by a person from the commission of an offence and the court is satisfied that person derived benefits from the commission of the offence, the court may, in terms of section sixteen, assess the value of the benefits so derived and order that person to pay to the State, subject to subsections (2) and (3), a pecuniary penalty equal to the value of the benefits assessed.

(2) Where property that is the proceeds of an offence has been forfeited in terms of this Act or any other enactment or a forfeiture order is proposed to be made against property that is the proceeds of an offence, the penalty referred to in subsection (1) shall be reduced by an amount equal to the value as at the time of the making of the pecuniary penalty order of the property forfeited.

(3) Where any amount of tax, whether under the law of Zimbabwe or a foreign country, has been paid by a person and that tax is attributable in whole or in part to the benefits in respect of which the pecuniary penalty order is being made, such amount may, if the court so directs, be deductible from the penalty assessed in terms of subsection (1).

(4) The court may reduce the amount payable by a person under a pecuniary penalty order made in relation to an offence by an amount equal to the amount paid by the person by way of restitution, compensation, damages or a fine in relation to the offence.

(5) In calculating the amount payable under a pecuniary penalty order, if the court took into account a forfeiture of, or a proposed forfeiture order in respect of, property and an appeal against the forfeiture order is allowed or the proceedings for the proposed forfeiture order are terminated before the order is made, the Attorney-General may apply to the court for a variation of the pecuniary penalty order to increase the pecuniary penalty by the value of the property concerned and the court may vary the order accordingly.

(6) In calculating the amount payable under a pecuniary penalty order, if the court took into account an amount of tax paid by the person and an amount is repaid or refunded to the person in respect of that tax, the Attorney-General may apply to the court for a variation of the pecuniary penalty order to increase the pecuniary penalty by the amount repaid or refunded and the court may vary the order accordingly.

(7) Any amount payable by a person to the State in terms of a pecuniary penalty order shall be a civil debt due to the State and shall be recoverable by action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

16 Assessment of pecuniary penalty

(1) For the purposes of a pecuniary penalty order against a person, hereinafter referred to as “the defendant”, the value of the benefits derived by the defendant from the commission of an offence shall be assessed by the court having regard to—

- (i) the defendant; or
- (ii) any other person at the request or direction of the defendant; by reason of the commission of the offence; and

(b) the value of any other benefit gained by—

- (i) the defendant; or

(2) In assessing the value of a benefit for the purposes of this section, the court may treat as the value of the benefit the value that the benefit would have had had the benefit derived at the time the valuation is being made and may have regard to any decline in the purchasing power of money between the time the benefit was derived and the time the valuation is being made.

(3) Where an application is made for a pecuniary penalty order against a person’s property in respect of a serious offence other than a specified offence—

(a) if evidence is adduced that the value of the person’s property after the commission of the offence exceeded the value of the person’s property before the commission of the offence, the court shall, for the purposes of subsection (1) of section fifteen but subject to paragraph (b) and subsection (7), treat the value of the benefits derived by the person from the commission of the offences as being not less than the amount of the excess;

(b) if, following the evidence referred to in paragraph (a), the person satisfies the court that—

(i) the whole of the excess was due to causes unrelated to the commission of the offence, paragraph (a) shall not apply; or

(ii) a part of the excess was due to causes unrelated to the commission of the offence, paragraph (a) shall apply only to that part of the excess which is related to the commission of the offence.

(4) Where an application is made for a pecuniary penalty order against a person’s property in respect of a specified offence or offences—

(a) all the property of that person at the time the application is made; and

(b) all the property of that person at any time—

(i) between the day the offence, or the earliest offence, was committed and the day on which the application is made; or

(ii) within the period of five years immediately before the day on which the application is made;

whichever is the shorter;

shall be deemed, unless the contrary is proved, to be property that came into the possession or under the control of the person by reason of the commission of the specified offence or offences.

(5) A benefit shall not be taken into account for the purposes of this section if a pecuniary penalty has been imposed in respect of the benefit in terms of this Act or any other enactment.

(6) For the purposes of this section, where the property of a person has vested in a trustee by reason of the person's insolvency, the property shall be taken to continue to be the property of the person.

(7) At the hearing of an application for a pecuniary penalty order, a police officer who has experience in the investigation of narcotic offences may testify, to the best of his information, knowledge and belief—

(a) as to the market value of a narcotic substance at a particular time or during a particular period;

(b) as to the price, or range of prices, paid at a particular period for the doing of an act or thing in relation to a narcotic substance;

notwithstanding any law or practice relating to hearsay evidence, and the testimony shall be prima facie evidence of the matters testified to.

17 Court may lift corporate veil

(1) In assessing the value of benefits derived by a person from the commission of any serious offence, the court may treat as property of the person any property that, in the opinion of the court, is subject to the effective control of the person whether or not the person has—

(a) any legal or other interest in the property; or

(b) any right, power or privilege in connection with the property.

(2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), the court may have regard to—

(a) shareholdings in, debentures over or directorships of any company that has an interest, whether direct or indirect, in the property; and

(b) any trust that has a relationship to the property; and

(c) any family, domestic or business relationships between persons having an interest in the property or in any company or trust referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), and any other persons.

(3) Where a court treats particular property as a person's property in terms of subsection (1) for the purposes of making a pecuniary penalty order against that person, the court may, on application by the Attorney-General, make an order declaring that the property is available to satisfy the order.

(4) Where the Attorney-General makes an application in terms of subsection (3)—

(a) he shall give written notice of the application to the person and to any other person whom he has reason to believe may have an interest in the property; and

(b) any person referred to in paragraph (a) may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application.

18 Amounts paid in respect of registered foreign pecuniary penalty orders

Where a foreign pecuniary penalty order is registered with the High Court in terms of the Criminal Matters (Mutual Assistance) Act [Chapter 9:06] any amount paid, whether in Zimbabwe or in the foreign country in which the order was made or elsewhere, in satisfaction of the foreign pecuniary penalty order shall be taken to have been paid in settlement of the debt arising by reason of the registration of the order with the High Court.

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall be construed as authorizing a police officer to carry out a search by way of an examination of body cavities.

26 Search warrants in relation to tainted property

(1) Where a police officer has reasonable grounds for believing that there is tainted property of a particular kind on a person, his clothing or under his immediate control, or upon any land or upon or in any premises, he may apply to a magistrate for the issue of a search warrant for the tainted property.

(b) that person’s reasonable expenses in defending a criminal charge; and

(c) a specified debt incurred by that person in good faith, being a debt to which neither paragraph (a) nor (b) applies.

(4) The court shall not make any provision referred to in subsection (3) unless it is satisfied that the defendant cannot meet the expense or debt concerned out of property that is not subject to the interdict.

(5) Where a trustee takes charge of any property in terms of this section, he may do anything that is reasonably necessary for the purpose of preserving the property, including—

(a) becoming a party to any civil proceedings affecting the property; and

(c) if the property consists, in whole or in part, of a business, employing or terminating the employment of persons in the business.

34 Grounds for issuing an interdict

(1) Subject to this section, on an application in terms of subsection (1) of section thirty-three the court shall issue an interdict against the property in respect of which the application is made, unless the court is satisfied that it is not in the public interest to do so.

hours.
